So England is alarmed over the prospect of the visitation of cholera! England controls the source and fountain-head of cholera epidemics, and England's stupid greed is to blame that the disease is allowed to flourish and menace the world.

The recently deceased Baron de Senzamban cherished a delusion that he had been elected President of a South American Republic. This delusion is mentioned in Paris, but is quite prevalent in South America.

To the question what safeguards against cholera should be adopted and enforced there is only one answer. Every known and possible safeguard should be put into service and at once.

HOW TO MEET THE DANGER

There is no occasion for a panic because the cholera is in the lower bay. It is altogether beyond reason to expect that the disease would not be brought into the port of New York by some of the many emigrant vessels arriving here almost daily and bringing emigrants and other passengers from more or less infected ports. That is why vigorous and decisive measures to guard against the entrance of the disease into the city became a necessity. Now that the existence of the danger is brought home to us practically by the actual arrival of an infected steamship, we better realize by how thin a partition we are separated from the scourge and how absolutely essential were the heroic precautionary steps which have been taken to prevent it from slipping through the door, and which will be continued and made yet more stringent by the Health Officer and his assistants.

Still, as we have said, there is no cause for a panic. The promptness with which the danger was met and the infected ship sent down to the lower bay ought, indeed, to have a reassuring effect. The people now have practical evidence of the efficiency of the Health Officer and of his ability to protect the city. Yet the arrival of the Moravia is a proof that we cannot trust to any vigilance on the other side to prevent the shipment of emigrants who have been exposed to infection and must be known to carry with them the germs of the disease. We must rely on ourselves for protection, and this fact suggests a few words of advice for our home use.

To the City Authorities: Clean the city. Don't be satisfied with making it little cleaner than in the past, but clean it thoroughly in every quarter, on the back streets as well as on the main thoroughfares, in the slums as well as on Broadway and Fifth avenue, in the tenement-house districts as well as in the localities ornamented with brown-stone palaces, so that no dirt or filth will anywhere offer a breeding place for cholera germs.

To the City Health Department: Look sharply to the condition of the dwellings of the poor and the rich alike. See to the plumbing and drainage everywhere. Remember that there are some fine residences in which the plumbing is dangerously defective, and where the sanitary rules ought to be enforced in relation to traps and closets. Remember that tenement-house owners are averse to expending money, and take care that drainage and plumbing is perfect and that the rules in regard to crowding are observed. Forward police, and bring back to the Department the able Sanitary Advisory Commission, the members of which were compelled in self-respect to withdraw their valuable services from the city.

To the People: Strudy and follow as far possible the excellent advice issued to the public by the Health Department. Cut the directions out of your newspaper and preserve them for reference. Be scrupulously clean in your persons, your clothing and your residences. The poorest apartment can be made clean and wholesome by scrubbing and ventilation. Water costs nothing and soap is cheap. Above all, be temperate, indulge in no excesses, and don't give way to needless alarm. You have your health greatly in your own hands. Guard it carefully, and you will have nothing to fear.

THE BORDEN CASE

The case of the prosecution in the Borden murder examination, weakened by the testimony of Prof. Woon, was still further shaken by the brief testimony for the defense, which showed that it was impossible Lizzie Borden could have committed the crime. The hope of the prosecution was to show that no other person could have been the murderer. The belief now is forced on the mind that the prosecution has known all the time that Lizzie was not the murderer, but that they believe she was a party to the crime and knows the perpetrator. If this is so, they naturally desire to make out a substance against her in order to let her in their power.

No one now believes that her hand inflicted the fatal injuries on the victims. Such a belief, in view of the evidence, would be absurd.

"THE WORLD" ON GUARD

The Sick Baby Fund's sphere of usefulness is increased now that a new danger has made its appearance. In their rounds among the poor in tenements the free physicians can guard against any spread of the disease by taking proper precautionary methods, and thus a link in the city's safety is formed. As shown by the Moravia's death list, with two victims the victims during her voyage were children under seven years of age. Thus, by looking to the health of children in this city, any spread of the disease is a menace avoided.

Ever watchful of the public interests, THE WORLD will establish medical agencies in the various tenement districts of the city. They will be conducted by competent physicians, who will be ready at all times to give professional advice and medicines, if needed, free to those who apply.

This in itself is a safeguard to public health, as the doctrine of sanitation will be scattered broadcast where it is most needed, and no one, either through poverty or ignorance, need contract the disease with a World medical headquarters in their immediate vicinity.

WILLIAM DOSE: MR. HARRISON

There will be no distinction of parts in the approval of the course of President Harrison in changing his plans and returning at once to Washington yesterday.

The moment the special reports of the arrival of the Moravia reached White Plains he declared his intention of abandoning his previously arranged programme and returning at once to his post to see what could be done to meet the danger.

"It is no duty to abandon all other considerations and return immediately to Washington," he said. And he carried out his resolution without any delay.

In this ready acceptance of his public duty the true American President is recognized. Mr. Harrison is determined that the country shall be protected from the scourge and from the indifference, if not the criminal carelessness, of other nations in their quarantine regulations, even if Congress has to be convened and our ports closed to all foreign traffic in passengers and goods until the sharp frost puts danger out of sight.

COAL $6 A TON

Coal Six Dollars a Ton. This is a pleasant announcement for persons of small means in the early autumn, especially when so threatened by the advance before the winter fairly sets in.

Where will the robbery of the people stop? At what point will the merciless greed of the coal barons be satisfied? At seven dollars? At eight dollars? Or at what extortionate and cruel rate?

The hopes of the plundered people is in the firmness and sincerity of the New Jersey authorities. They have already gained an advantage in their fight against the robber barons and the combination conspirators, and the people trust in them to pursue it to the bitter end and to crush out the conspiracy before it preys any further on the community. There is talk of calling an extra session of the Legislature to recall and cancel the franchises of the Railroad corporations in case they refuse to obey the orders of the Chancellor's Court. This is the right way to deal with the combination. Some one might be imprisoned for contempt of Court, but the conspiracy would still go on and the price of coal would still advance. The people would continue to be the victims and the sufferers. But when the railroad corporations realize that they are in actual danger of losing their charters, they will soon abandon the fight and will seek to get away with the plunder they have already secured.

If New Jersey struggles this robber band on the people, Gov. ANNETT, Attorney-General STOCKTON and the New Jersey Legislature will deserve the thanks of the whole community.

HOW IS THIS?

Secretary FOSTER says that he has been asked by several of the labor organizations to allow them to name the special inspectors of immigration at Ellis Island. The Secretary added: "The Glass-Workers asked for a man, and I consented because I am in the glass manufacturing business myself. It is growing very large, and it would be said if I refused that I was prejudiced by my interests."

How is this? The Secretary of the Treasury in the glass manufacturing business on a very large scale? Does the Foster firm import plate glass? An explanation is in order.

The painful evidence of fact furnished by the unsanitary condition of Hamburg shows that municipal government in Europe has not reached a state of perfection everywhere.

The unflinching regularity with which the frenzied Texas steers selects Fifth avenue for his promenade is a phenomenon which science should explain if possible.

The rich man of New York who owns the Opera-House owes it to themselves to rebuild it. What are they here for?

A MOST SUCCESSFUL FAIR

Young Ladies of East Forty-ninth Street Realize $52.16.

One of the most successful fairs held for the Sick Baby Fund was that given yesterday by Eva Herzkowitz, of 317 East Forty-ninth street, Aug. 24 and 25.

Her assistants were Carrie Friedman, Annie Roman, Bella Adler and Birdie Birnbaum, all of whom worked hard for the last three weeks to insure a success.

They collected money and made fancy work of every description. All cup was donated to be voted to the most popular young lady.

A German Hoelz and John V. McKane took a great interest in the fair and helped the young ladies all they could.

The room was prettily decorated with flags, and the various lanterns, as were also the various booths.

Young ladies and gentlemen were assigned to the various stands, as follows: Young ladies, Carrie Friedman, Annie Roman, Bella Adler, and Birdie Birnbaum; gentlemen, John V. McKane and John Hoelz.

Miss Eva Herzkowitz, who was the cup, was presented to her by Jeremiah Ackley.

Henry Jackson and Charles McCormick were doorkeepers, and Mrs. Herzkowitz, Charles Herzkowitz, and Charles Weisbach and John Hoelz were the ticket takers.
